WHO WOULD WANT TO SABOTAGE THE MARS ROVER?

It may shock you after reading the latest thriller from Tsaba House, The Payload

Aaron S. Thiel, the author of The Payload, is an attorney and avid space law enthusiast. The author will captivate your audience with issues relevant to today's Mars rover missions and fictional scenarios that will thrill and excite the imagination.

- What if a country or corporation, wanted to get rid of something - for good. Perhaps evidence of a mass crime; a dastardly form of artificial intelligence; or, toxic waste too hazardous to store on Earth. There are plenty of things that a government or corporation would permanently get rid of, if given the opportunity.
- Do we really know what's on those rockets? They tell us "satellites" but many times, it's classified.
- What if a country or corporation tried to get rid of something by sending it into deep space only to have something go terribly wrong? What if that same payload strayed off course and had a rendezvous with Mars? And now, the United States has a rover snooping around on the Red Planet.
- These scenarios, although fictional, are plausible and serve as the premise for The Payload, a thriller from Tsaba House.

The Payload involves Dutch Bennett, a struggling law school grad who is forced to take a job in the obscure field of space law. But when Dutch inadvertently receives an e-mail from NASA's JPL during a Mars rover mission, his life is suddenly turned upside down. Enlisting the help of private investigator, Tamara Jennings, he blindly places his faith in her to uncover its secret meaning. But as her twisted motives become exposed, Dutch finds himself covered in blood and begging for God's forgiveness.

The Payload is the first book of seven in a legal thriller series. The Payload provides suspense, fast paced action, and a surprising twist in the end. Yet, at its core you'll find an inspiring story of how a young man named Dutch Bennett, unwittingly conquers evil on a spiritual roller coaster ride to the truth.
